

From: John C. Stilin
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/25/02 1:52am
Subject: Microsoft Settlement: Now AOL Sues For Netscape?

I seem to recall that the Netscape Navigator Browser could be downloaded free from the Netscape Web site and oh by the way they forced you to accepted it with a home page default set to Netscape. Did anybody ever bother to check how many people paid for the free browser per the Netscape agreement? How can Netscape claim harm when Microsoft priced their product Internet Explorer to equal that of Netscape? How do you undercut free? Just goes to prove if you can't compete in the high tech industry, forget personal accountability, blame somebody else and sue. It's the American way.

Let's not waste more taxpayer dollars in this matter just because Netscape doesn't know how to run a business.

John C. Stilin
johnstilin@msn.com

17611 NE 110th Way
Redmond WA 98052
425.881.1632 tel
425.881.6173 fax
425.922.3435 cel